This Zipfizz does not sit as well with me as the Zipfizz berry energy drink. This is a fruit punch flavor with a bit of a medicine consistency and after taste. Over all a good flavor, it seems a bit to thick for my liking. If you like Kool aide it is very much fruit punch Kool aide but with a thicker consistency. I liked the berry powder better to be honest, which surprises me because many times the powders don't work out well or don't match up to the premixed drinks. It does seem to pack a pretty good kick I can definitely feel it but I am surprised at how jittery the drink is making me feel. I am kind of bouncing around in my chair and having a hard time focusing right now. That isn't a good thing, I found my self sort of scatterbrains and not thinking straight with a bit of a head ache for almost an hour. I think it might be due to the huge B12 intake (41,667%), I felt better when I would get up and walk around or do some jumping jacks, but I just couldn't sit still. So the taste was OK, but left something to be desired, I mean it isn't a flavor I would love to try, it just is worth it if your looking for an energy boost, unlike some energy drink which I truly enjoy drinking. I guess I just feel if you want this kind of pick me up and like fruit punch flavors this premixed version falls short on something better covered by many other drinks on the market. One advantage the standard Zipfizz has is that you can pocket it and mix it with water any where any time. It is light and easy to pack so keeping some in your backpack makes a lot more sense than trying to fit a 4 pack of Monster in there all the time. So Zipfizz if you going to focus on the powdered drinks stick to what your better at.

My favorite is the pink lemonade and sometimes the Citrus zipfizz. Low calories works just fine with me. The best part it doesn't make me jumpy. Nice and smooth gradual energy increase. I buy mine here it's much cheaper at shopbam.com A must try energy booster.

Of course you were in your chair bouncing around. You're not supposed to drink an energy drink and sit on your computer and play some games. It's for sports, not for you to be able to pull an all-nighter. (Though I do tend to stay up later if I take one too late before football.)

Zipfizz is cheapest at Costco. Cheaper than Sam's Club or Bam.
